1 Objective of the consultancy

Group Development Pakistan, in collaboration with UNFPA, has been advancing legislative and policy reforms to end child marriage in Pakistan by aligning statutory protections with both constitutional guarantees and Islamic jurisprudence. Building on previous initiatives that strengthened parliamentary engagement, profiled systemic gaps, and engaged Nikah Registrars and local government officials to improve marriage registration processes and child marriage prevention, GDP now seeks to strengthen the evidence-based discourse against child marriage in Pakistan by disseminating the religious and legal legitimacy of past and future reform efforts aiming to counter this harmful practice.

To this end, GDP seeks to engage two consultants having legal and Islamic jurisprudential expertise to provide solid and enlightened guidance on how Islamic principles support the protection of children and the establishment of a minimum age of marriage, while also identifying best practices from Pakistan and other Muslim-majority countries where Islamic scholarship has been leveraged to counter child marriage. Their contributions will reinforce policy dialogues, advocacy, and technical support under GDP's partnership with UNFPA, ensuring that child marriage reforms are both contextually grounded and widely accepted.
